What are the bonus payment amounts?

LT - 4-year bonus - $18,000 per year ($72,000 total)

LT – 2-year bonus - $12,500 per year ($25,000 total) / ($50,000 if both 2-year bonuses are accepted)

LCDR – 4-year bonus - $25,000 per year ($100,000 total)

LCDR – 2-year bonus - $15,000 per year ($30,000 total) / ($60,000 if both 2-year bonuses are accepted)

When should I expect payment?

Monthly bonuses are submitted to DFAS at the end of the month prior to the month of payment. DFAS will typically process the payments within the first two weeks of the month the payment is authorized. If an officer has NOT received their payment by the 20th of the month on which the payment is authorized, they should contact the EOD Warfare OCM.

Why did I receive less than the contracted bonus amount?

- The government takes about 30% in taxes from your ORB annual installment.

- Per DODFMR Vol 7A, Chapter 3, 5.0, retention bonuses are a Special Pay. This means bonus money will be distributed according to the percent in your “Special Pay” column under “Traditional TSP and Roth TSP” in MyPay.

What if I receive more than my annual contracted amount or an additional payment?

Contact the EOD Warfare OCM immediately.

Can I break my ORB Contract?

When a member agrees to a further service commitment in exchange for a bonus, they sign a contract between Navy and themselves. A member can request to break the contract and get out of their service obligation early; however, they can only REQUEST to do so, and the Navy (specifically the detailers, working with the OCMs) will review the request to see how it comports with the needs of the Navy. If the needs of the Navy require the member to remain (i.e., community undermanned, billet would be gapped, etc.), the Navy can decline the member's request and the contract remains in effect. If needs of the Navy allow the request to be approved, (i.e., community overmanned, etc.), the Navy can approve the request, essentially agreeing to void the contract and the member will be released, owing the Navy the pro-rated amount of money. Again, the contract can ONLY be broken if the Navy agrees to breaking the contract. If the Navy does not agree, the contract remains in effect.
